- B. Business activity model
- C. Rich picture.
- D. Business process model

Answer: B

Explanation:

A Business Activity Model (BAM) is a tool used to help visualize and understand the relationships between the different activities and processes that take place in a business. It can help to identify patterns, trends, and relationships between different processes, enabling the team to view the entire system as a whole. This can help to identify areas in which processes can be improved, or potential problems that could cause issues in the future. BAMs can also be used to facilitate communication between different stakeholders, allowing them to share their perspectives and ideas on how to improve processes. With a BAM, Girby can easily visualize the relationships between the different processes and identify areas where issues may be occurring.
